“FIFA on Xbox One is a living, breathing game experience. As we bring in more players in our game development studios, we needed to find a way to capture that,” said Kevin Chou, Executive Producer on FIFA. “Microsoft and EA have been helping us to build the future of the franchise, and we are incredibly excited to deliver on this vision and take the game to the next level.” “Microsoft has always been a leader in the sports gaming industry and we’re excited to have them working with us to evolve the genre,” said Aaron Moorehead, CMO for EA SPORTS. “Through the use of Microsoft’s expertise in sports performance and their expertise in Xbox Live, our talented development teams are able to create a deeply immersive experience on the Xbox One.” “By capturing the professional and the passionate quality of live sports matches on Xbox One, we are able to develop additional, unique and meaningful experiences in gaming which add to the overall quality of our in-game content,” said Yusuf Mehdi, Corporate Vice President, Marketing and Strategy, Microsoft. “Our goal is to work closely with EA SPORTS to deliver an experience that you will want to play for years to come.” FIFA 16 kicked off EA Sports’ partnership with Microsoft Xbox Live. The partnership enabled FIFA gamers to compete against friends on Xbox Live, streamed their real-life gameplay, and watched replays of their toughest shots. In addition, more than 1 million Xbox Live users played FIFA 16 in real life during the first weekend following release. With FIFA on Xbox One, EA SPORTS continues to leverage the depth of the Xbox Live ecosystem to deliver the most authentic and complete sports gaming experience possible. FIFA on Xbox One launches globally for Xbox One in Europe this fall, and Xbox One, PC, PlayStation 4 and PlayStation 3 in North America in early 2017. Availability for Xbox One is limited to new EA SPORTS accounts and will be select markets at launch. As part of the annual global award ceremony, the Electronic Frontier Foundation (EFF) selected the devices that EFF believes pose the most challenges and obstacles for Internet users in 2015. “We’ve already created this list of devices and services that are becoming the ‘black holes’ that steal and leak data,” said EFF Staff Technologist Dan Auerbach. “But what’s next? What devices are coming out
